

Reading Ford

King's College London
Room S2.39

2.30 p.m.
Saturday 20 April 2013

All are welcome at 'Reading Ford', an open event organised by the Ford Madox Ford Society. With Ford currently attracting numerous new readers, it is an ideal time to explore the book-group approach to reading him as well as more individual experiences of his work.

Five speakers have been confirmed – honorary member Oliver Soskice, Hilary Green, Michael Goldman, Walter Hall and Sally Kirkwood – and we hope there will be the opportunity to have a more general discussion among those present.

It would be very helpful to have an indication of numbers – if you are intending to come, please email Sara Haslam: Sara.Haslam@open.ac.uk. And please pass the invitation on to anyone else that you think might be interested – everyone is welcome.
